

IT'S JUST A DOCK. UNTIL IT'S YOUR BACKYARD.

How the community dock changed the privacy of neighboring homes.

1

View from the park at night

Before the dock, the shoreline and vegetation blocked the view into our living area.

2

View from the dock toward our home

Now, the dock extends into the water and creates a direct line of sight into our home.

The issue is not simply that people use a dock. The issue is where it was built, how far it extends into the water, and how it changed the privacy of neighboring homes.

This is about privacy, proximity, and quality of life.
